Fate

HE had found her.

Finally.

SHE. The one, who can defeat his Lord.

A Mudblood.

HE was a fool.

Trusting.

Always believe in the good.

HE had killed him.

HE was brilliant.

Cunning.

Send him to fool the wise wizard.

HE would win.

A second prophecy was made.

Deadly.

SHE, with the power of the founders, will destroy the darkest of the dark.

HE would kill her.

HE had found her.

Fate.

HE mocked her like he ever had.

The decision would be made today.

SHE laid on the ground.

Pain.

HE thought he broke her.

SHE would win.

HE claimed her body, gave her a Deathkiss.
Bittersweet.
SHE raised her hands.
HE smiled.

SHE begged for her life.
Hopeless.
HE thought of the victory.
SHE smiled.

HE entered her mind.
Resistance.
SHE saw it.
HE was trapped.

HE recognised it.
Too late.
SHE whispered.
Avada Kedavra.

Hermione Granger rose up. She took his wand and levitated his lifeless body. They returned to the Headquarters. Severus Snape, the traitor, was dead. Voldemorts plan was his deadly fate. Albus knows about the betrayal, the prophecy and the plan.

Since her first year at Hogwarts, Albus trained her for that very moment. She was a Mistress in Leglimency. He taught her the Dark Arts. She had to understand their essence to defeat them.

She asked herself again and again, why she had to play this dangerous game. Albus was the most powerful wizard in his time. What could three young, inexperienced wizards do, to destroy the Dark Lord?

He told them about the power of the fate, now they understand.

When Snape entered her mind, it was easy for her to do it vice versa, because he had to put his unbreakable walls down. She saw all she needed. The places where the remaining Horcruxes are and how to destroy them. Voldemorts secret hidings. The identity of his followers. Now they could go and finally destroy HIM.
